

REBECCA HARTKOPF SCHLOSS

Associate Professor
Texas A & M University
Department of History
207B Melbern G. Glasscock Hall
MS 4236
College Station, TX 77843-4236
979-845-7151
rhschloss@tamu.edu

DEGREES RECEIVED

| | |
|-------------------------------------|---|
| Duke University | Ph.D. in Modern French History, May 2003 “‘The distance between the color white and all others’: The Struggle Over White Identity in the French Colony of Martinique, 1802-1848” |
| Duke University | M.A. in European History, December 1996 |
| University of Wisconsin, Madison | B.S. in History, with distinction, May 1992 |

ACADEMIC POSITIONS HELD

| | |
|---------------------------|---|
| Texas A & M University | Associate Professor, Fall 2010-present Assistant Professor of History, 2003-2010 |
| Colorado Mountain College | Social Sciences Instructor, Fall 2002 |
| Duke University | Interim Instructor of History, Fall 1998 |

ADMINISTRATIVE POSITIONS HELD

| | |
|------------------------|--|
| Texas A & M University | Department of History, Director of Undergraduate Studies, 2011- 2015 |
|------------------------|--|

RESEARCH AND PUBLICATIONS

Books in Print:

Sweet Liberty: The Final Days of Slavery in Martinique, University of Pennsylvania (Early American Series), July 2009, (paperback 2012))

Referred Journal Articles in Print:

“Imagining the ‘grand colonial family’ in French Guiana, 1819-1823,” Atlantic Studies, 11:2 (2014), 195- 219.

“The February 1831 Slave Uprising in Martinique and the Policing of White Identity”, French Historical Studies, 30:2, 203-236 (Spring 2007)

“Superb Ladies,” “Uncultivated Creoles,” and “Intimate Friends:” Female Identity in Nineteenth-Century Martinique,” Pouvoirs dans la Caraïbe, numéro spécial, Série Université de juillet, Session 1998, septembre 2000, pp. 15–32 (ISSN 1143-1865)

Works in Progress:

France at the Edges: Life in France’s Atlantic Port Cities, 1815-1830, manuscript in progress

Invited Lectures:

“Facilitating Freedom: Women, Family, and Migration in the Early Nineteenth Century French Atlantic,” February 5, 2016, Interdisciplinary Approaches to Modern France and the Francophone World, University of Chicago, Chicago, IL

“Crossing the Waters: Women, Family and Migration in the Early Nineteenth-Century French Atlantic,” April 27, 2011, “Atlantic Migrations” Symposium, 2011 Spring Symposium of the Alexandrian Society and Department of History, Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond, VA

Comment on J.H. Elliott’s Empires of the Atlantic World, April 23, 2010, McNeil Center for Early American Studies, Philadelphia, PA

Select Scholarly Presentations:

“Global France in the Revolutionary Era: Between Metropole and Colonies,” (chair), January 2017, The American Historical Association Annual Conference, Denver, CO

“‘Bad sorts’ and ‘good husbands’: Race, masculinity, and mixed-race deportees in the early nineteenth-century French Atlantic,” May 2016, Free and Unfree Labor in Port Cities, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA

“Creating and Defining the French Empire across Borders in the 19th Century”, (chair) November 2015, Western Society for French History Annual Conference, Chicago, IL

“Teaching Emerging Histories of the Early Modern French Atlantic,” (session moderator), October 2015, Omohundro Institute of Early American History and Culture/College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, VA

“Suspect or Safe? Demarcating Mobility in the Restoration-Era French Atlantic,” May 2014, Association of Caribbean Historians Annual Conference, Fort de France, Martinique

“Bourbon Monarchy or Imperial Dynasty? The Hundred Days in Martinique, 1814-1815,” February 2014, Consortium on the Revolutionary Era, Oxford, MS

“Black, White and French: Making Race in Saint-Domingue and France,” (Comment), October 2013, Western Society for French History Annual Conference, Atlanta, GA

“Reconstruction,” (Chair), September 2013, “1914 and the Making of the Twentieth Century” Conference, College Station, TX

“Enslaved, Free or engages à temps?: Senegal and the Restoration-Era French Atlantic,” April 2013, Society for French Historical Studies Annual Conference, Cambridge, MA

“ ‘Moyen de peupler Cayenne à peu de frais’: Pierre Clément Laussat and the Settling of French Guiana, 1819-1823,” June 2012, French Colonial Historical Studies Annual Conference, New Orleans, LA

“Colonial Justice from the Revolution to the July Monarchy,” (Panel Chair/Comment), June 2012, French Colonial Historical Studies Annual Conference, New Orleans, LA